CONTRACT LAW CASES Flashcards - Cram.com
Contractual agreement has traditionally been analysed in terms of offer and acceptance. One party, the offeror, makes an offer which once accepted by another party, the offeree, creates a binding contract. Key concepts that you need to familiarise yourself with in relation to offer and acceptance include the distinction between an offer and an invitation to treat - you need to be able to identify specific examples of where an offer or an invitation to treat exists.

Contract agreement - Offer and acceptance
The basics of contract law are fairly easy to understand. Only people who are at least 18 and of sound mind may enter into one. When one party involved in the contract is a legal entity like a corporation or LLC, they must have a legally authorized representative present.

The general rule is that contracts can be made informally; most contracts can be formed orally, and in some cases, no oral or written communication at all is needed.

BASIC PRINCIPLES OF ENGLISH CONTRACT LAW
Contract law not only governs what happens when the contract breaks down, but it also establishes what the terms of the contract are, in the event of a dispute. Á While the contract may be self explanatory in what the parties intend i.e. you pay Á£50 and Iâ€™ll give you this washing machine, there are of course terms as to the time of payment, delivery, condition of the goods etc that need to be established.
