Going Down was downright hilarious; Marion McAlister was a walking disaster. She wished upon Esperanzas wishing well to nail her acting audition but ended up getting stuck inside the elevator, with Mack Ryan, her landlord, food provider, best friend all rolled into one. Mack, oh Mack.. I don't get Marion's issues with him..

And I wish on all the rainbows that I see
And I wish on all the people we've ever been
And I'm wishing on all the days to come and days to go
And I'm wishing on days of loving you so, yes yes
I'm wishing on a star
To follow where you are
I'm wishing on a star
I'm wishing on all the rainbows that I see, yeah, yeah, yeah

Going Down was downright hilarious, I love being inside the main character's head, those unwarranted thoughts and no-holds barred opinions of hers were quite a hoot. There was never a boring scene nor a dull part on the book. It's been ages since I laughed out loud and cackled like banshee after a really entertaining book!

Synopsis. On an otherwise ordinary day, a woman named Johanna Shannon (Elisabeth Rohm) goes to throw out something wrapped in a sheet. Her daughter Clare (Raegan Revord) goes to ride her bicycle with her dog Max. Johanna goes into the house looking spaced. When Clare comes home, she goes into the attic to find Johanna hanging herself.

Wish Upon (2017) - Plot Summary - IMDb

Let's go, bring it on Better give us what we want It's the wand for the crown If you don't, it's going down Let's go, make your move Peace or war, it's up to you Give him up and do it now If you don't, it's going down We want the wand Or else the king is gone Your time is running out You should really watch your mouth Let's go, pound for pound
